ABOUT ME

I'm a driven and insightful person who is passionate about developing my skills and working towards my goal of becoming a full stack developer.

With a background in Sociology and Social Studies of Gender, it might seem unusual at first for me to say that web development calls to all my passions, but simply put - development incorporates creativity and problem solving. It's oddly satisfying to try to fix what is broken, or rather, what I have intentionally or occasionally unintentionally broken (after creating another Git branch, of course).

It helps that I am interdisciplinary in thought, socially minded, resourceful and extremely hardworking.

My specialities include quickly learning new skills and programming languages and problem solving. I have already learnt JavaScript(ES6), HTML, CSS, React, NODE.js, PostgreSQL, JSON and Git/GitHub and am enthusiastically seizing any opportunity to learn and use other programming languages, frameworks or principals.
